PROFESSIONAL TRAINING IN MEDICAL QIGONG THERAPY

Dear Prospective Student,

Eric Shaffer, DMQ offers professional training in the Daoist Medicine curriculum of the International Institute of Medical Qigong (IIMQ). P1-Introduction to Medical Qigong is the place to begin, an in-depth course that lays the foundation for all later study. There are no prerequisites. Learning formats include 32 hour group classes and private instruction. Medical Qigong Practitioner (MQP), Therapist (MQT), and Master (MMQ) certificates may be earned. Qualifying students can request NCCAOM Acupuncture or Oregon Board of Massage Therapy PDU credits for continuing education.

P1 - Introduction to Medical Qigong is the first and foundational course of a complete system of Chinese energetic medicine. There are texts for the courses, required readings, experiential and scholarship instruction and exams. Our outcome based instruction supports students to succeed.

Open to all health care professionals, students of Traditional, Classical, and Five Element Chinese Medicine and Asian Bodywork, Massage Therapists, and others who are interested in Chinese energetic medicine, our curriculum is evolved from the IIMQ syllabus. We offer a multi-level certification program designed to teach the theory and practical application of Daoist Medicine.

Emphasis in our programs is placed on both analytical/deductive and intuitive approaches to comprehending and utilizing medical qigong therapy for cultivation, regulation and clinical application. Experiential aspects of the course are well balanced, with a solid theoretical foundation. There are reading requirements, plus oral and practical examinations.

OMQ offers 1, 2, and 3 year programs in Medical Qigong Therapy. Certificates include clinical theatre, internship, and externship. Requirements for courses in Anatomy, Physiology, and TCM Theory may be fulfilled at another appropriate institution.
